ROCK PAPER TIGER

"Lisa Brackmann's ROCK PAPER TIGER is a compelling debut that takes you deep into the dangerous, complicated heart of modern China, with a tough and appealing heroine in Ellie McEnroe."

—Jeff Abbott, author of Trust Me

"A terrifying odyssey in present-day China.... A totally captivating page-turner with vivid, first-hand details and nuanced multi-cultural facets."

—Qiu Xiaolong, author of The Mao Case

"A splendid debut novel by a gifted new writer. Her Chinese setting is exotic and chilling, and the characters live and breathe. The story is smart and fast as a sports car. Keep an eye on Brackmann."

—T. Jefferson Parker, author of The Renegades

LISA BRACKMANN

has worked as a motion picture executive and an issues researcher in a presidential campaign. A southern California native, she has lived and traveled extensively in China. She currently lives in Venice, California with her three cats. Rock Paper Tiger is her first novel.

A wild ride through the world of online gaming, artists, and international espionage in contemporary China

American Iraq War veteran Ellie Cooper is down and out in Beijing. Her husband, who brought her to China, has left her, and she's still suffering from the injury that ended her military service and from PTSD. Without a visa, she'll be deported when her divorce goes through, but she doesn't want to go home. She's made friends in China. One in particular, Lao Zhang, a painter and performance artist, is something more than a friend.

Then one day she encounters a Uighur—a member of a Chinese Muslim minority—at Lao Zhang's house, and her life is turned upside down. Lao Zhang disappears, and suddenly multiple security organizations are hounding her for information. They say the Uighur is a terrorist. Ellie doesn't know what's going on, but she doesn't want to get Lao Zhang in more trouble. As she tries to elude her pursuers, she's haunted by memories of Iraq. Is what she did and saw there at the root of the mess she's in now? Her options dwindling, she's contacted through an online role-playing game by a group claiming to be friends of Lao Zhang, asking her for help. With no other clues, Ellie does the only thing she can—keeps playing.

THE BROTHERS BOSWELL

PHILIP BARUTH

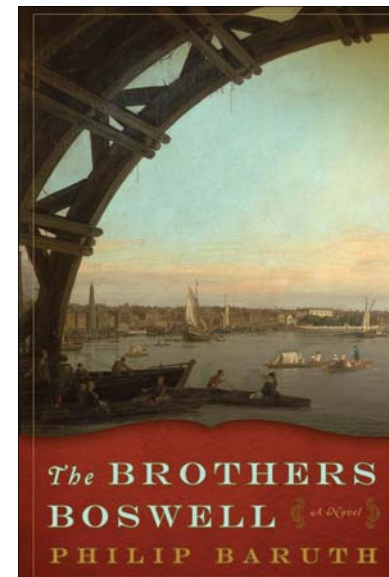

History's famous literary duo,
Johnson and Boswell, are stalked by Boswell's mad younger brother

“An exciting, suspenseful story.... Not to be missed.”
—Washington Post

“[An] accurate, original, and entertaining fictional reconstruction.”
—Boston Globe

“Remarkable.”
—David Liss, The Devil's Company

“It is a beautifully written novel, with the flavor of a literary work.”
—Minneapolis Star Tribune

The year is 1763. Twenty-two-year-old James Boswell of Edinburgh is eager to advance himself in London society. Today his sights are set on furthering his acquaintance with Dr. Samuel Johnson, famed for his Dictionary; they are going to take a boat down the Thames to Greenwich Palace. Watching them secretly is John Boswell, James's younger brother. He has stalked his older brother for days. Consumed with envy, John is planning to take revenge on his brother and Johnson for presumed slights. He carries a pair of miniature pistols that fire a single golden bullet each and there is murder in his heart.

PHILIP BARUTH is an award-winning commentator for Vermont Public Radio and a graduate of Brown University with an M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of California at Irvine.

THE SAND BOX

"The Sandbox sabotaged me. I read the first four pages and my sleeve got caught in the lives of these soldiers, and the story was gritty and real and offhand, and so I lost the day and the next, and I'm so happy to report back that this terrific novel offers us both the world of the conflict and another story just as powerful. Zimmerman's made a fine book."

—Ron Carlson, author of The Signal

In Iraq, a roadside ambush propels a young American soldier into the middle of a high-reaching conspiracy

Operating Base Cornucopia. A three-hundred-year-old fortress in the remote Iraqi desert where a few dozen soldiers wait for their next assignment, among them Private Toby Durrant, a self-described "broke nobody." Then a deadly ambush touches off events that put Durrant in the middle of a far-reaching conspiracy.

Insurgents massing in the nearby hills, a secretive member of military intelligence, an abandoned toy factory and a mysterious, half-feral child—Durrant must figure out the links between them if he's to survive. A corrupt war breeds a corrupt fighting force and it is the foot soldiers who pay the price. This classic story of a decent man trying to do right under impossible circumstances, is a blistering look at military life in "the sandbox" of Iraq and marks the debut of a major new talent.

DAVID ZIMMERMAN

was raised in Atlanta, Georgia by an Army Nurse and an Army JAG officer. After receiving his MFA degree in creative writing from the University of Alabama, he spent several years living and working in Brazil and Ethiopia. He now teaches at Iowa State University. The Sandbox is his first novel.

STETTIN STATION

PRAISE FOR THE JOHN RUSSELL SERIES:

"Will have readers clamoring for a sequel."
—BookPage

"A finely drawn portrait of the capital of a nation marching in step toward disaster."
—St. Louis Post Dispatch

"A beautifully crafted and compelling thriller with a heart stopping ending as John Russell learns the personal faces of good and evil. An unforgettable read."
—Charles Todd, A Duty to the Dead

"Wonderful.... Downing's mingling of history and thrills makes this a must read."
—Rocky Mountain News

"An extraordinary evocation of Nazi Germany on the eve of war, the smell of cruelty seeping through the clean modern surface."
—C. J. Sansom, Revelation

"An atmospheric tale."
—St. Petersburg Times

DAVID DOWNING

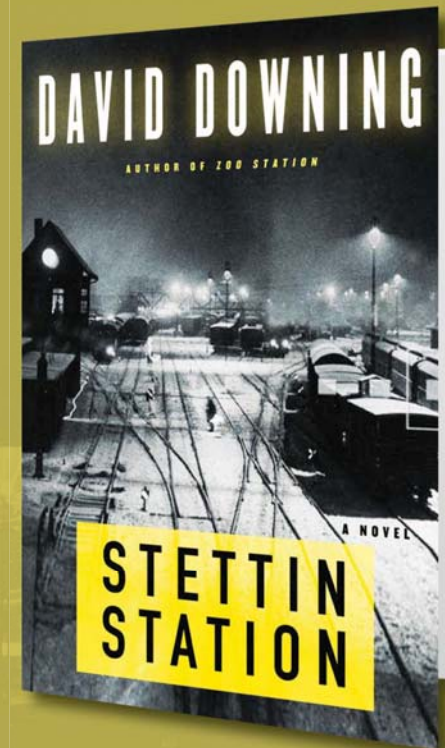

grew up in suburban London. He is the author of numerous works of fiction and non-fiction for both adults and children, including two previous books featuring John Russell, Zoo Station and Silesian Station. He lives with his wife, an American acupuncturist, in Guildford, England.

With American entry into WWII looming, Anglo-American John Russell searches for a way out of Germany

In the fall of 1941, Anglo-American John Russell is still living in Berlin, tied to the increasingly alien city by his love for two Berliners: his fourteen-year-old son, Paul, and his longtime girlfriend, Effi, a German movie star. One of a dwindling handful of permitted but heavily-censored American journalists, Russell has found himself pushed into working as a contact between the Abwehr, an anti-Nazi German intelligence organization, and American intelligence.

On his own time, he's investigating a story that he can't publish from inside Germany—what's happening to the Berlin Jews who are now being shipped to the east? His search for the answer brings him into proximity with the local communist underground and involves him in a celebrity murder.

As his situation grows increasingly perilous, Russell struggles to find a way out of Hitler's Reich. Can he manage to escape and take Effi with him?

THE SECRET INTENSITY OF EVERYDAY LIFE

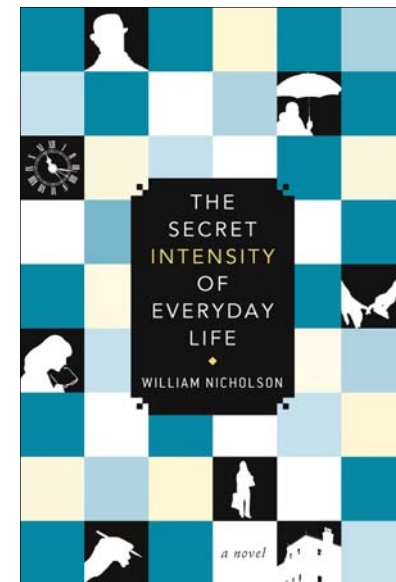

WILLIAM NICHOLSON

A novel about what it means to be happy by the Academy Award-nominated writer of Gladiator

“The writing is unobtrusively brilliant. I can’t remember enjoying and admiring a new novel more.”
—Elizabeth Jane Howard, Marking Time

“Utterly captures the sense of quiet desperation of ordinary lives ... and the ways in which life turns on a sixpence.”
—Kate Mosse, Sepulchre

“Hugely funny... But beneath the Wodehousian surface, it is a serious book about men, women and children with complex inner lives trying to find happiness and coping with disappointment.”
—Telegraph (UK)

Laura is a happily married mother of two who begins to question her choices when her first love resurfaces after twenty years. She’s forced to compare the passion of that relationship with the domesticity of her suburban life. What if she’d stayed with him? Would she be happier? And what is happiness, really? Little does she know that many others in her gentrified English village, including a rector who’s lost his faith, a frustrated school teacher, and a successful single mother who can’t get over her ex, are struggling with their own personal crises.

Two of WILLIAM NICHOLSON’s screenplays—Shadowlands and Gladiator—have garnered Academy Award nominations. He is the author of five previous novels and lives in Sussex with his wife and three children.

ADRIAN HYLAND

won Australia's 2007 Ned Kelly Award for Best First Novel for Moonlight Downs, which was also a Book Sense Notable. He spent many years in the Northern Territory living and working among the indigenous people. He now teaches at La Trobe University and lives in Melbourne.

Half-aboriginal amateur detective Emily Tempest in her second investigation set in the Australian outback

In this second book in the Ned Kelly Award-winning series, Emily Tempest, half-white, half-aboriginal, a university student who has returned to her roots, is appointed Aboriginal Community Police Officer for the Moonlight Downs station. Investigating the possible murder of an elderly geologist, she encounters Danny, an emotionally fragile Stonehouse mob teenager who is traumatized by the image of "poison flowing green."

The terrain of Australia, a Japanese rock garden painter, a rash of unexplained illnesses and the implausibility of two elderly friends killing each other present Emily with a unique puzzle.

Not since Arthur Upfield's Napoleon Bonaparte series has aboriginal Australia had as sympathetic a scribe.

After ten years in England, South African P.I. Jade de Jong returns to violent Johannesburg

Random Violence

"Random Violence excels in its ability to translate our propensity for violent crime into a clever plot that could take place only in South Africa."

—Gillian Anstey, SundayTimes (South Africa)

"The author impresses with the tightly wrought and thrilling story."

—Mariana Malan, Die Burger

"Jassy Mackenzie delivers a thriller that will, hopefully, prove the first of many.... It's the individual characters, whether snotty subordinates or fearful pensioners, who made this so realistic. Fight scenes, well depicted, hit Deon Meyer level."

—The Star (South Africa)

—The Star (South Africa)

JASSY MACKENZIE

was born in Rhodesia and moved to South Africa when she was eight years old. She has actually been car-jacked at gunpoint outside her home. She lives in Kyalami near Johannesburg and edits and writes for the annual publication Best of South Africa.

In Johannesburg, prosperous whites live behind gates; when they exit their cars to open the gates, car-jackings are common. But seldom is the victim killed, much less shot twice, like Annette Botha. Piet Botha, the husband of the wealthy woman, is the primary suspect in his wife's murder.

P.I. Jade de Jong fled South Africa ten years ago after her father was killed. Now, back in town, she offers to help her father's former assistant, Superintendent David Patel, with his investigation of this case. Under apartheid, Patel, of Indian descent, could never have attained his present position. But he is feeling pressure from his "old line" boss with respect to this investigation and fears lingering prejudice is at work.

As Jade probes into this and other recent car-jacking cases, a pattern begins to emerge, a pattern that goes back to her father's murder and that involves a vast and intricate series of crimes for profit.

The Steam Pig

JAMES MCCLURE

The debut of Lieutenant Kramer and Sergeant Zondi, winner of the CWA Gold Dagger

“James McClure’s first novel arrives like a slam in the kidneys ... a gripping style, real characters, and an exotic locale.... The Steam Pig will not only keep the reader’s nose to the page, it will also make [him] think.”

—The New York Times Book Review

“More than a good mystery story ... a revealing picture of the hate and sickness of the apartheid society of South Africa.”

—Washington Post

In the debut mystery featuring Sergeant Zondi and Lieutenant Kramer set in South Africa, a beautiful blonde has been killed by a bicycle spoke through the heart, Bantu gangster-style. Why?

JAMES MCCLURE was born in Johannesburg; he published eight wildly successful books in the Kramer and Zondi series. He died on June 17, 2006.

DARK DREAMS

MICHAEL GENELIN

The second Commander Jana Matinova investigation set in Slovakia

“Readers hungry for a fresh crime setting will be enormously satisfied with Michael Genelin’s Jana Matinova novels based in Bratislava, Slovakia, a place relatively unknown to Westerners.... The portrayal of life in post-Communist Slovakia is riveting.”
—USA Today

“[A] gripping novel ... with a truly original central character... Plan on getting the first Matinova novel, Siren of the Waters, too. You’re not going to want to miss an episode.”
—Globe and Mail (Toronto)

“Outstanding.”
—Booklist

Jana and Sofia were best friends when they were schoolmates. Now Jana is a Commander in the Slovak police force and Sofia, having made a name as a reformer, is a member of parliament. Jana has fallen in love with an upright government prosecutor and Sofia is carrying on a notorious affair with a suave, married fellow MP.

One day Jana finds an enormous diamond gem dangling from a string fixed to the ceiling of the living room of her house. Was it put there as a present? Or, more likely, to entrap her? The answer leads Jana across Europe to unravel a far-reaching conspiracy that has entangled her hapless, impulsive friend, Sofia, and ultimately leads to a criminal mastermind.

THE MAGICIAN'S ACCOMPLICE

MICHAEL GENELIN

An indigent student and Jana Matinova's lover are killed in Bratislava. Are the murders connected?

Praise for the Jana Matinova series:

“The resourceful and prodigiously insightful Jana seems to have no flaws. But it isn’t her feats of superheroism that give the story its chilly sense of reality; it’s her casual acceptance of the almost universal corruption of everyone who lives in her world.”
—The New York Times Book Review

“Genelin ratchets up the prose with smooth suspense, evocative locales, and distinctive characters who leap from the page.”
—Publishers Weekly

Devastated by her lover’s death in an explosion—on the same day an indigent student was shot and killed in normally sleepy Bratislava—Jana is transferred to The Hague, headquarters of the international police force Europol. On the flight she encounters a retired magician, the dead student’s uncle, who is determined to help Jana investigate his nephew’s death. And his help is needed as, in this third Jana Matinova investigation, she faces an international conspiracy emanating from Europol itself.

MICHAEL GENELIN is a graduate of UCLA and UCLA Law School. He has served as a consultant for the US State Department and USAID in Central Europe, Africa, Asia, and Haiti. He lives with his wife in Paris.

THE MERRY MISOGYNIST

COLIN COTTERILL

Dr. Siri is confronted with a deadly Casanova targeting lovely young women

Praise for the Dr. Siri series:

“Terrifically beguiling detective novels steeped in local color and history.”
—The New York Times Book Review

“A delightfully fresh and eccentric hero.”
—John Burdett

“Unpredictable.... Tragically funny and magically sublime.”
—Entertainment Weekly

“A crack storyteller and an impressive guide to a little-known culture.”
—Washington Post Book World

In poverty-stricken 1978 Laos, a man with a truck from the city was “somebody,” a catch for even the prettiest village virgin. The corpse of one of these bucolic beauties turns up in Dr. Siri’s morgue and his curiosity is piqued. The victim was tied to a tree and strangled but she had not, as the doctor had expected, been raped, although her flesh had been torn.

On a trip to the hinterlands, Siri discovers that many women have been killed in this way. He sets out to investigate this unprecedented phenomenon—a serial killer in peaceful Buddhist Laos—only to discover that not only pretty maidens are at risk. Seventy-three-year-old coroners can be victims, too.

Dr. Siri faces the challenge of his lifetime

Praise for Dr. Siri series:

“The consistently fine characterizations of the entire cast are matched by a tightly constructed plot.”
—Booklist

“Glimpses of everyday life in Laos will appeal to those readers curious about a culture unfamiliar to most Americans.”
—Publishers Weekly

“A hero unlike any other.”
—Philadelphia Inquirer

Three young Laotian women have died of fencing sword wounds. Each of them had studied abroad in an Eastern bloc country. Before he can complete his investigation, Dr. Siri is lured to Cambodia by an all expenses paid trip. Accused of spying for the Vietnamese, he is imprisoned, beaten and threatened with death. The Khmer Rouge are relentless, and until he escapes it is touch and go for the dauntless, now seventy-four-year-old national—and only—coroner of Laos.

COLIN COTTERILL lives in Chumphon on the Gulf of Thailand with his wife, Jessi, and a bunch of dogs and writes and illustrates full time. He is a Dilys Award winner and winner of the 2009 CWA Dagger in the Library.

THE CURIOUS INCIDENT AT CLARIDGE'S

R.T. RAICHEV

Did young and beautiful Lady Tradescant try to poison her elderly husband? If not, who did?

Praise for the Antonia Darcy series:

“Auspicious....Agatha Christie fans will find much to like in this traditional whodunit.”
—Publishers Weekly

“The kind of old-school English mysteries that fans of Christie and Sayers love ... but this will be pleasing to more than traditionalists, because it adds a P.D. Jamesian subtlety to the comfortable Christie formula. Antonia Darcy is a terrific sleuth, and Raichev is a very clever writer, indeed.”
—Booklist

It appears that someone has tried to poison elderly Lord Tradescant. There is no shortage of suspects. His eccentric twin sister Bettina, his disgruntled son Nicholas, his scheming daughter Olivia.... Antonia Darcy and Hugh Payne face one of their most baffling cases.

R.T. RAICHEV is a researcher and writer who grew up in Bulgaria and wrote a university dissertation on English crime fiction. He is the author of five novels in the Antonia Darcy series and has lived in London since 1989.

STRANGE IMAGES OF DEATH

BARBARA CLEVERLY

In a Provence chateau, 1926, a murder and a missing child echo centuries-old crimes

Praise for Barbara Cleverly:

“In her spellbinding debut mystery, The Last Kashmiri Rose, Barbara Cleverly evokes both the enchantments and the dangers of India during the convulsive later days of the Raj.”
—The New York Times

“Cleverly maintains the high standards set by earlier Sandilands tales, blending a sophisticated whodunit with full-blooded characters and a revealing look at her chosen time and place.”
—Publishers Weekly (Starred)

Provence, 1926. Scotland Yard detective Joe Sandilands is on leave, planning to drive south to the Riviera after dropping off his niece at an ancient chateau. A troubling crime committed just before their arrival leaves a clear message that more violence is to come. To allay panic, Joe agrees to stay on and root out the guilty person. But, despite Joe’s vigilance, a child goes missing and an artist’s beautiful young model is murdered in circumstances eerily recreating a 600-year-old crime of passion.

BARBARA CLEVERLY lives in the middle of Cambridge surrounded by ancient buildings and bookshops. She was born and educated in the North of England at a Yorkshire grammar school and then at Durham University. Her debut, The Last Kashmiri Rose, was a New York Times Notable Book of 2002.

Slow Horses

MICK HERRON

Who can you trust when nothing is as it seems?

Praise for Mick Herron:

“Mick Herron never tells a suspense story in the expected way... In Herron’s book, there is no hiding under the desk.”

—The New York Times Book Review

“Stylish and engaging.”

—Washington Post

Slough House is a dumping ground for British Intelligence agents who’ve screwed up a case in any number of ways—by leaving a secret file on a train or blowing a surveillance. River Carter, one such “slow horse,” is bitter about his failure and about his tedious assignment transcribing cell phone conversations. When a young man is abducted and his kidnappers threaten to broadcast his beheading live on the Internet, River sees an opportunity to redeem himself.

The Broken Circle

SHIRLEY WELLS

Forensic psychologist Jill Kennedy and DCI Max Trentham investigate a strange murder

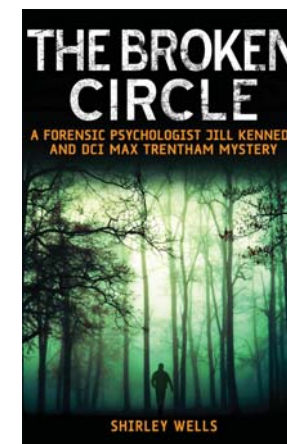

Praise for the Jill Kennedy and Max Trentham series:

“Wonderful, individual and realistic characters.”

—Booklist

“A deft combination of police procedural and psychological thriller.”

—Kirkus Reviews

A man with a dark past is murdered after moving from London to the quiet Lancashire Village where forensic psychologist Jill Kennedy has made her home. Why is a local trying to hinder the investigation? Is an old adversary involved?

SHIRLEY WELLS lives in Lancashire, UK. She has published thirteen novels, including two previous novels in the Kennedy-Trentham series.

The Pull of the Moon

DIANE JANES

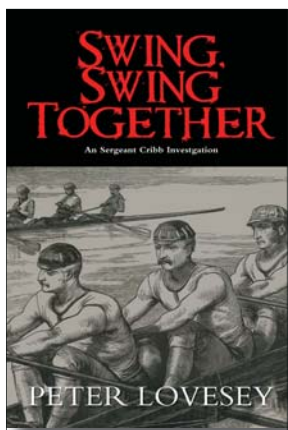

The danger of keeping a secret is that it's going to find a way out

When Kate Mayfield receives a letter from dying Mrs. Ivanisovic, she realizes that the secret she’s kept for more than thirty years is no longer safe. Haunted by the echoes of a vanished summer which changed her life forever, Kate is forced to confront a memory she’d rather forget: a dead white face in a flickering beam, not flinching when the soil hit it.... Is the old woman really after Kate’s story of love, lies, and murder? Or something more?

DIANE JANES grew up in Birmingham and has worked in seemingly every field, from mortgages to engineering. She has been shortlisted for the CWA Debut Dagger. She lives in the north of England with her husband and two children.

Swing, Swing Together

PETER LOVESEY

In the seventh Sergeant Cribb Victorian mystery, only a daring skinny dipper can identify three murderers

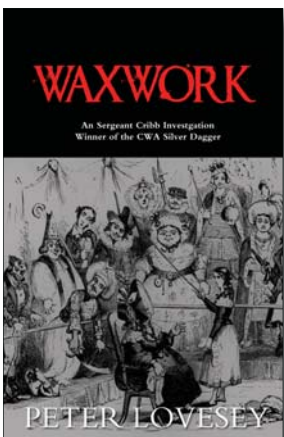

Praise for the Sergeant Cribb series:

“The late Victorian atmosphere and dialogue are beautifully and accurately rendered. The characters are done with masterly hand. But perhaps the best thing about it is the way you feel all the time that this must be an account of a real-life crime, because nothing strikes a false note, nothing seems contrived.”

—Ruth Rendell

During a skinny dip in the Thames, Harriet Shaw, elementary school teacher-in-training, witnesses a body being dumped. Cribb and Thackeray investigate and uncover strange parallels with the then-popular Jerome K. Jerome mystery, “Three Men in a Boat.”

Waxwork

PETER LOVESEY

Winner of the CWA Silver Dagger award, the eighth and final mystery in the series

Praise for the Sergeant Cribb series:

—San Francisco Chronicle

“Rough and tumble Victorian mysteries ... [in] handsome paperback editions.”

—The New York Times Book Review

Beautiful Miriam Cromer seems confident that she will be acquitted of the murder of her husband's assistant despite her confession. She blames her husband although he has an alibi. It's up to Cribb and Thackeray to discover what really happened.

PETER LOVESEY is the author of over twenty-five novels. He has received many CWA Awards and the Malice Domestic Award for Lifetime Achievement. He lives in Chichester, England.

A Pig of Cold Poison

PAT MCINTOSH

The seventh mystery in the Gil Cunningham series set in medieval Glasgow

Praise for the Gil Cunningham series:

“McIntosh does a solid job of blending plot and period detail.”

—Publishers Weekly (Starred)

“Will do for Glasgow in the 15th century what Ellis Peters and her Brother Cadfael did for Shrewsbury in the 12th.”

—Mystery Readers Journal

Gil Cunningham is the Archbishop's Questioner—his investigator. Nanty and Danny were rivals for the affection of Agnes, the apothecary's daughter. Danny dies, apparently of poisoning, after drinking from his friend's flask. But what was the poison? Is Nanty guilty? Then more murders ensue, and Gil's wife, Alys, joins the investigation.

The Stolen Voice

PAT MCINTOSH

A Gil and Alys Cunningham investigation set in medieval Scotland

Praise for the Gil Cunningham series:

“McIntosh provides a signature twist at the end that serves as an unexpected bonus for readers already enthralled with the medieval mystery she has spun.”

—Booklist

“Excellent.”

—Kirkus Reviews

Could Davey Drummond have been carried off by the fairies only to reappear forty years later seemingly not a day older than when he vanished? What about other Scottish sweet singers who are missing?

PAT MCINTOSH was raised in Lanarkshire, lived in Glasgow, and now resides in the West of Scotland.

Bones in High Places

SUZETTE A. HILL

More from Maurice, Bouncer, and the hapless Reverend Oughterdard

Praise for Suzette A. Hill:

“This dry, funny British gem, with its eccentric cast of characters, will leave readers laughing and eagerly awaiting the next episode.”

—Publishers Weekly

“Charming and engaging.”

—Kirkus Reviews

The hapless Reverend Francis Oughterdard is lured by his blackmailer, Nicholas In-gaza, to the French Auvergne accompanied by stowaways Maurice, a cynical cat, and Bouncer, an enthusiastic dog. There “FO” is pursued by murderous thugs and ensnared by a cranky religious sect.

SUZETTE A. HILL taught literature for many years at Reading College and now lives in Hertfordshire.

A Load of Old Bones

SUZETTE A. HILL

A charming and farcical romp introducing a vicar and his most peculiar cat and dog

Praise for Suzette A. Hill:

“Should appeal to fans of Martha Grimes, Saki, and Wodehouse.”

—Historical Novels Review

“Quite why this series should be charming, astringent and witty instead of emetically twee, I am not sure, but it is entirely delightful.”

—Guardian (UK)

The Reverend Francis Oughterdard (“FO”) merely longs for a quiet life far from his bishop’s overview. Instead, he becomes entangled in a nightmare world of predatory female parishioners, officious policemen, and accidental murder. It is up to Maurice, the cat, and Bouncer, the dog, to save him.
